BABY CRITIC INTERVIEWS MARY PICKFORD FAIRBANKS

Youngest Dramatic Reporter Sits on Film Star's Lap While Obtaining an Interview, Which Is Terminated by Good Old-Fashioned "Bear Hug"

Mary Pickford and Baby Guy Price

(By International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, June 4.—Guy Price, Jr., America's youngest dramatic critic, claims the unique distinction of being the first newspaper man to sit on Mary Pickford's lap while obtaining an interview.

Young Price, who resides in Los Angeles, was assigned by a local newspaper to visit the studio of Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks (Mary's name in private life) and carry out the delicate mission of interviewing the film star on whether Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks are expecting an heir.

As soon as Price, Jr., saw Mary he held out his arms to her. Although she was busy before the camera, Mary stopped work right then and there and took the youngest reporter of them all on her lap and hugged him tight.

But then, you see, Price, Jr., is only 14 months old.

The way he happens to be a journalist as such an early age is because he "inherited his liking for the stars," his father being widely known as the dramatic editor of a Los Angeles newspaper.

"Goo-r-r-r-as-h-h-h?" questioned Price, Jr., as soon as he was comfortably settled on Mary's lap.

"No, I'm sorry," answered Mary,

"but I haven't any little girl or boy for you to play with. Won't I do?"

"Bar-r-r-a-goo-a-goo. Er-er-er-hum-mmm."

"Why, the idea. He wants to know if I intend to have a playmate for him the next time he sees me," confessed Mary blushing.

"I refuse to answer. Ouch!! He's got a hold of my hair," cried the actress. "Please stop pulling so hard on that curl—I'm dreadfully sorry, but Doug and I both hope so sometime—yes, I'll tell you the very first one, only please—nice boy."

"Won't you come up for bread and milk some afternoon with Doug and me?" the "movie" star asked.

"Yum-yum-yummy-yum-yum," cooed Price, Jr.

"And then you can have your afternoon nap on my very own bed. Would you like that?" said Mary, her golden curls all tousled.

"Mmmmm - mmmmm," hummed Price, Jr., contentedly.

"He says that I have won, and that he doesn't care what the city editor says to him about falling down on a star," laughed Mary. "Well, you just say that I love all children and I guess that will do for this time."

And the interview was terminated with a good old-fashioned "bear hug."

BURGLAR HAS DESIRE FOR VALUABLE LITERARY WORK

Rev. C. A. Cole has just suffered a serious loss in the theft of his 29-volume de luxe edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, which was stolen from his study in Central Christian church building some time in the past few days. The books were well worth $150. The thieves must have been experts or else thoroughly familiar with the building, and evidently used a truck to carry away their plunder. This is the second theft from the church in two years. Rev. Cole's typewriter having been stolen previously.

At one spot near New Zealand the ocean is more than six miles deep.

Pilgrimage of Mercy

HONOR MISS NADINE HESSION OF BIG PINE, SOON TO BE BRIDE

Mrs. Martin Sunkes, 1138 East Elk avenue, was hostess on Thursday evening at a very pretty party complimenting Miss Nadine Hession of Big Pine, who is soon to become the bride of Rowland Walters of Glendale.

A profusion of spring flowers adorned the rooms where Mrs. Sunkes and her assistant, hostess, Mrs. Thomas Miller, received the 45 guests who came to enjoy the merry evening arranged in honor of the popular bride-elect.

Among the clever diversions arranged as a part of the evening's entertainment was a fortune-hunting game in which Miss Hession's search for hidden treasure led her to the hiding place of a beautiful silver fruit basket, the gift of her fiancé.

Music for the pleasant affair was furnished by Miss Evangeline Quackenbush and Miss Hazel Walters, the former delighting the company with beautiful violin solos, the latter with a vocal solo, "I Love You Truly," which she sang with sympathy and intelligence.

A dainty collation was served out under the pergola, elaborately decorated with pepper boughs, Japanese lanterns and kowpies. A large cake centered the table, where a charming pink and white color scheme was carried out even in the refreshments.

PLEASANT EVENING FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

A group of Glendale young people gave a little entertainment for the invalided ex-service men at Thornycroft Friday night, which was much enjoyed by the men. In included three vocal numbers by Miss Marie Oliver, Miss Dorothy Howard and Will Slater gave piano selections. Walter Kohl and Nellie Rowe put on a little one-act play called "The Time Table" and Miss Rowe gave a reading in addition. Popcorn was served by way of refreshment and it proved a very pleasant evening for all concerned.

SPIRIT OF RECIPROCITY SHOWN IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Representatives of Glendale Union High School Give Fine
Program at Intermediate—Pupils of Mrs. Dora
Gibson's Music Department Participate

The spirit of reciprocity that is being developed in our city schools, the spirit that has led high school boys to umpire and assist with athletic programs in the grade schools and that has made the small boys and girls look to their big brothers and sisters higher up and anticipate the day when they too will be in the high school, had a beautiful demonstration at the Intermediate, Friday afternoon.

At an assembly which packed every seat and which was marked by the greatest enthusiasm, pupils of the music department of the high school under the direction of Mrs. Dora Gibson, put on a delightful program which included:

"Christ in Flanders" (Ward-Steffens), Boys' Glee Club.

"I Hear a Thrush at Eve" (Cadman), Dorothy Peart.

"Sweetest Rose That Ever Bloomed" (Coverly), Kenneth Jackson.

Trio—two violins and piano "La Cinquaintaine" (Gabriel-Marie), Genevieve Mulligan, Julia Robinson, Selma Carver.

"Who Knows" (Ball), Joe Rhoades, followed by "Boy of Mine" as an encore number.

Miss Brennan, head of the music department, on behalf of the school expressed its thanks, the appreciation of the audience having been already manifested by stormy applause and enthusiastic recalls of the artists. Then the school as a whole sang "America the Beautiful," and two representatives of the student body of Glendale high made short talks. The first to speak was Tom McNary, president of the Student Body, who assured the graduating class of Intermediate of the welcome it would receive

Men Less Vain, Less Patient, Than Women

(By International News Service)

BOSTON, June 4.—Women are more emotional, more impulsive, more temperate, more religious, more patient than men. They have more vanity, more shyness, less temper, less independence, less self-consciousness and less humor.

These are the words of Professor Thorndike, accredited a sage among psychologists.

A statement embodying the above ideas is hung in the surgeon's room of the First Army Corps headquarters in Chauncey street. With it hangs the following table, the result of hundreds of psychological examinations:

Admiral Rodman Warns That Japan Is Protecting Her Growing Commerce

By CHARLES E. HUGHES
LOS ANGELES, June 4.—With his leave-taking from the Pacific fleet, whose upbuilding he has directed for the past two years in his capacity as commander-in-chief, Admiral Hugh Rodman, distinguished for 46 years' service with the American navy, paid a splendid tribute to the efficiency of America's sea fighters and made a plea for their united support of the nation in the navy's program for adequate facilities on the west coast.

He warned that Japan is energetic and aggressive and is providing a pretentious naval program to take care of its commerce.

He also warned that unless America properly equips its Pacific fleet with adequate bases, so that American commerce can be safeguarded, its warships will deteriorate and the present

MRS. BRANT WAS CHAPTER HOSTESS

Chapter B. A. P. E. O., held its last meeting of the club year, yesterday, at the home of Mrs. Edith Arnold, 211 East Lomita avenue. Mrs. Josephine Brant was hostess of the day.

Plans were made for the picnic which the chapter will give at Echo Park on the afternoon of Friday, June 17, when the husbands of members will be their guests at supper. The committee in charge of the affair includes Meses. Fern Clark, Douglas Chase and Elizabeth Brown.

Yesterday afternoon's program consisted of a parliamentary law study led by Mrs. Kate Parker, who styled it "The Sins of Chapter B. A."

Nightshirts for Hoboes

(By International News Service)
LONDON, June 4.—Oakham (Rutland) board of guardians has been a good deal amused during the regime of the ministry of health with its remarkable suggestions for "benefiting" the inmates of workhouses.

But they now think that the ministry has passed the limit of sanity. For it has lately suggested that they should provide nightshirts for tramps who accept the hospitality of the local workhouse.

"THE DEESTRICK SKULE" BY THE CITY TEACHERS CLUB

Dignified Instructors in Roles of Mischievous Boys and Girls
Will Present Play With Vim and Enthusiasm—Large Audiences Are Expected—Proceeds Will Be Used to Send Delegate to N. E. A. Convention

The original and amusing comedy, "The Deestrick Skule," that is being given by members of the City Teachers' Club this afternoon and evening, had its final dress rehearsal Thursday night, when it was evident that the hard work the players have done in making ready on this drama had been effective. Since then they have been resting that they might come to the task of presenting it with vim and enthusiasm. It will be a joy to the children to see their dignified instructors in the roles of mischievous boys and girls and to get a glimpse, exaggerated though it may be, of the old time conditions where each school was a little principality run quite independent of every other and subject to the mandates of the "deestrick fathers." It could hardly be called a school "system" then.

It is expected that the auditorium will be packed for the matinee performance, and that those who come late this evening may have trouble in getting seats.

The proceeds from this drama will be used to send a delegate to the N. E. A. convention, who will bring back to the stay-at-home teachers the good things provided on the program of the national association that all may keep abreast of the latest development in educational theory and practice.

It ought not to be necessary for the hard-worked teachers to be put to this extra exertion to raise the money to send this delegate. Another year it would be a good thing for the Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations, with its 1500 membership, to take the matter up and finance the sending of the representative of the Teachers' Club.

Meanwhile, however, the P. T. A.'s have a chance to demonstrate their appreciation of the work the teachers are doing by liberally patronizing the sparkling little farce the club is putting on.

J. W. STAUFFACHER HAS NO OPPONENT FOR OFFICIAL HONORS

Under the new city charter, voters of Glendale will elect five members of the city council on June 28.

Sixteen candidates have filed petitions with City Clerk J. C. Sherer. They are: Walter E. Anderson, Ann P. Bartlett, Earl E. Brown, Samuel A. Davis, Charles Grist, Charles H. Henry, Clarence E. Kimlin, William B. Kirk, A. H. Lapham, William C. Mabry, Robert M. McGee, Charles H. Muhleman, Spencer Robinson, Dwight W. Stephenson, Henry W. Yarrick and Howard W. Walker.

Candidates seeking election to the city clerkship are: Townsend Clark, Guy Maxwell, A. J. Van Wie and the present incumbent, J. C. Sherer.

So far, the present city treasurer, J. W. Stauffacher, is the only candidate for this position.

STRUCK BY CAR; SLIGHTLY INJURED

John Butler of 516 Milford street, was struck and slightly injured by an automobile driven by B. M. Emerson of 441 Salem street. The accident occurred at the corner of Central avenue and Salem street yesterday afternoon. A wagon, which was between the car and Mr. Butler, prevented the driver from seeing him, until it was too late. Mr. Butler jumped on the front of the machine but slipped off and the car passed partially over his leg. He was hurried to the hospital, where he was treated for his injuries which were declared not serious. The accident it was agreed by both parties was unavoidable.

Dr. P. O. Lucas, as a father and citizen, has always been deeply interested in our grade schools. Mrs. Lucas is president of the Pacific Avenue Parent-Teacher Association and has been active in work for the promotion of school welfare.

Mrs. A. A. Barton has also been an ardent worker for the city schools and efficiently filled the offices of president of the Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations, and chairman of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle, an allied organization devoted to education.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED TO THREE THOUSAND DEAD

(By International News Service)

SPECIAL
DENVER, Colo., June 4.—From 1500 to 3000 dead is the estimate of the loss of life in the great disaster that has overtaken Pueblo as the result of a widespread flood and fire that have raged there since Friday afternoon.

After being cut off from the outside world for nearly 18 hours, a communication was established by a lineman who climbed a pole on the outskirts of the city and sent broadcast, appeals for help.

He reported the heavy loss of life. He said that bodies were being hauled out of the water by scores. All food in the city has been destroyed. Eighteen feet of water covers the main business section and the property damage will be immense.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 4.—The agent for the Denver & Rio Grand railroad at Pueblo arrived here at 2 o'clock from that city and reported that more than 2000 persons were dead in the flood and fire.

He said the city was still on fire and that the loss would be $15,000,000. The agent came to Colorado Springs in an automobile driven over the railroad ties. Bodies are being hauled through the streets and piled like cordwood. House after house is floating along in the current that swirls through the business streets. State rangers have taken over the city, putting the flooded areas under martial law. Relief committees for the flooded districts are being formed.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR

By A. WINGATE.

Ashley sat at the desk in his den. He had not yet actually settled down to work, for the door stood ajar and he was still exploring his portfolio and setting papers in order before him.

Voices floated down the staircase, his wife's subdued, his son's deep and vibrant, Ashley's lips expanded in a satisfied smile.

"Have you thought, Gordon, of the effect this will have upon your father, and perhaps upon your prospects?" Mrs. Ashley asked.

"Yes," answered the young man. "I have yielded to father in choosing business instead of a profession. In this I cannot yield."

"He will be disappointed," the mother said gravely.

Gordon laughed shortly at this mild statement. "I am a man now, mother, and this is a matter in which one man may not command another. I love Alie."

"We've played together summers down at Wheatfield ever since we were kids, and I always liked her best," he finished, boyishly.

His voice changed to a harsher tone. "Father is ruining his life and ours," he said, sternly. "Everything that is his is touched by the blight of his overbearing temper. It is wearing you out. I can see it. Marjorie's happiness was sacrificed to his ambition. Dick was forced into congenial employment. We've all kept in for your sake, but some day there'll be a mighty smash. There never was a man who thought himself omnipotent, since the days of Nebuchadnezzar, that the Almighty didn't humble him."

At the look on his mother's face, he added, contritely: "Forgive me, mother. I shouldn't have said it."

They moved away. Ashley sat motionless. That merciless indictment from Gordon, his hope and pride! It was a full half-hour before he arose, closed the door and locked it. He dropped into his chair and laid his head upon his folded arms.

"Allie Betty Kent down in Wheatfield!"

That must be Alice Elizabeth's daughter. In the days when Wheatfield had been his home, Alice Elizabeth's name had not been Kent, but Courtney.

After a few moments, he raised his head, unlocked a drawer and took out a box. From the box he drew a shabby pocketbook, and from this, in turn, a tiny, yellowed silk bag. He untied its string and shook the contents out upon the blotter—a circlet of braided sweet grass, dry and brittle, and a gold ring set with a small diamond.

He remembered the day he had braided the grass and measured Alice Elizabeth's finger.

They sat under the maples on the river bank. The sun sent golden shafts of light through the trees to fall upon her yellow hair. She had insisted upon having the braided ring to keep and had made the little silk bag for it, the very evening he had placed the diamond on her finger.

He remembered, too, the evening nearly two years later, when she had given them back. He recalled fragments of the conversation.

"You have grown so hard."

"Nothing matters except having your own way, and it does not matter that your way is not always right."

"I do not dare to risk life with you."

"Please try to change, or I fear you will some day be a lonely, wretched old man."

His hurt had been deep. He could not destroy the rings, but had hidden them.

Thirty-five years, and he had not changed. If tonight were any criterion, he was on his way to the lonely, wretched old age she had prophesied.

A rap sounded at the door. With the pitiful diamond still clasped in his hand, Ashley unlocked it.

Gordon came in, his shoulders squared. "I wasn't sure you had come home," he said. "Are you too busy to listen to me for a few moments?"

Ashley pushed back his papers. "Go ahead," he said, gruffly.

Gordon came straight to the point. "I'm engaged to be married, father. I thought it best to tell you."

Ashley was silent. Gordon stumbled on. "It is Allie Betty Kent. She lives in Wheatfield, where we used to go summers." He waited, tense, for the expected outburst.

"In Wheatfield," mused his father. "Must be Alice Courtney's daughter."

"She is," answered the young man. Relieved, he sat on the corner of the desk and picked up a circlet of dried grass that lay there, nervously breaking it to bits and laying the bits upon the platter. Ashley winced.

"Probably better than you deserve," he growled. "See that you treat her well. Now clear out."

Gordon went. "Dismissed with a blessing," he remarked in helpless astonishment.

Left alone, Ashley swept the bits of dried grass into the waste basket. He put the diamond away, closing the door with a bang.

"Perhaps," he said to the four walls, "I shall not need so large a dose of grass as Nebuchadnezzar."

Palace Grand

The story concerns a jockey, a trainer, a racetrack follower, who at the time the picture opens, has risen to the ranks of racehorse owners, and of the difficulties he encounters when he attempts to abandon his gambling habits. Not only is Mr. MacLean afforded ample opportunity to "get over" sparkling comedy situations, but to display his dramatic ability and his skill with "thrillers" as well.

The opening scenes of the story, laid on a famous California race track, are notable for tensely dramatic situations, and a thrilling accident, in which Mr. MacLean plays a prominent part. Throughout the remainder of the picture, clever comedy and dramatic suspense are delightfully blended and carried through to an unusual ending.

The feature picture at the Palace Grand for Sunday and Monday is "The Witching Hour," with Elliott Dexter in the stellar role.

Glendale Theater

One of the most powerful, stirring and colorful photodramas of the year is shown at the Glendale theater today for the last time. It is a Benjamin B. Hampton production, "The Killer," said to be one of the greatest of the brilliant producer's works.

"The Killer" is an up-to-the-minute picture, which combines romance and color of the old west with something that only the modern age can give in the way of realism and gripping suspense.

Adapted from Stewart Edward White's newest novel, "The Killer," is evidence that Ben Hampton stands alone as the perfect visualizer of novels. All the points that went to make the book a best seller are emphasized in the photoplay version.

That sinister figure, "The Killer," said to be the strangest character in literature, literally comes to life through the art of Frank Campeau, the famous character actor. Claire Adams plays the leading and only feminine role, with Jack Conway cast in the romantic lead.

The Motor Industry

It will surprise many to learn that there was an increase of 12 per cent more automobiles manufactured in 1920 than in 1919. The aggregate price was 19 per cent more. The wholesale value of the cars was $2,232,927,628. Perhaps these facts throw some light on the hard times that have struck the railroads and street railway companies. Transportation is in a transition period. No one can say how we will travel tomorrow. This also has its bearings upon morals and ideals. Everybody is "living fast" now. It all means a mightier and better race if the church keeps pace—which it will.

STATE AID BILL FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

The chief feature of the American Legion meeting last evening was the talk by Byron Fitts, state commander, on the state aid bill for ex-service men which has been passed and signed by the governor.

This bill includes five plans for aiding the soldier. The first proposes the buying of large tracts of land in the state, subdividing and developing it and selling it to soldiers on liberal terms; a farm up to $15,000 to be paid for in 40 years with interest at 5 per cent.

By the second plan, soldiers may acquire homes anywhere they choose in the state, at a cost not to exceed $5000, and with the same payment arrangements as allowed those who purchased the farms.

By the provision of the third plan, a soldier may select his own land at a cost up to the amount of $7500, and may pay for it in 40 years with interest at 5 per cent.

The fourth plan provides that ex-service men whose college courses were interrupted by their service to their country may have their tuition transportation and text-books supplied them for two years at college, and may also receive $40 a month during that time.

By the fifth plan a fund of $75,000 will be devoted to the vocational education of the wives, daughters or sons of soldiers who are totally disabled, and of those who have given their lives for their country.

ENTERTAINS FOR MISS SHELDON

Mrs. R. P. Sheldon, 401 West Patterson avenue, entertained a company of friends yesterday at a charming afternoon function in honor of her sister-in-law, Miss Pansy Sheldon, of Rocky Ford, Colo.

Miss Sheldon is an accomplished musician who has had the best of training in eastern musical colleges in instrumental and vocal music, and she contributed to the entertainment of the guests several fine piano selections, as well as a number of vocal solos. So charmed were the guests with her lovely lyric soprano that she was asked to respond to repeated entreaties.

Having spent the winter and spring in Glendale, Miss Sheldon and her mother, Mrs. O. F. Sheldon, are so pleased with the city that they are considering making it their home.

Miss Sheldon has been for six years superintendent of music in the Rocky Ford schools and has had other valuable teaching experience in her art. She has had many flattering offers for next year, but she will make her home in Glendale if she accepts a position anywhere in this vicinity.

Five of the ladies present at this function were former residents of Rocky Ford, Colo. Luncheon was served at a prettily appointed table in the dining room. Those having the pleasure of the afternoon were Mrs. George Armstrong, Mrs. Clark Johnson, Mrs. Nathan Rigdon, Mrs. O. F. Sheldon, Mrs. Florence Shoop, Miss Pansy Sheldon and the hostess.

Admiral Rodman, who has had more active sea duty than any other officer in the American navy, will get at least a brief respite from service afloat. He will proceed immediately to Washington, where for a short time he will serve with the navy selection board, which recommends advancement of officers. On completion of this work he expects to be assigned to duties that will keep him in the east.

The veteran, who was one of Dewey's commanders when the Spanish fleet was overwhelmed in one of the world's most effective sea battles at Manila Bay in 1898, and who was knighted by King George for his conspicuous service with the British grand fleet as commander of the American unit in the world war, expressed keen regret that he was leaving the Pacific coast.

"I wish Americans in every part of the country could realize what an important part the west coast now plays in our national life," said the admiral to the International News Service. "Then they could form some estimate of the tremendous role it will play in the next century, when our Pacific commerce is developed on the scale of magnificence it is sure to attain." At the present time there are more than 175 fighting vessels of all types in the Pacific fleet, with the prospect, the admiral pointed out, that this number will be swelled if the navy is to keep abreast of the growing United States mercantile marine centered in the Pacific trade.

"I have no knowledge that the Pacific fleet is to be augmented in the near future, but if Washington is going to enlarge it or maintain it at its present standard of efficiency, there will have to be improved docking and repairing facilities. While we have no enemies in the Pacific, we do expect to have a larger commerce in this ocean, which means proper naval protection is necessary.

"Japan, which feels it must have a larger mercantile marine to support its national growth, has provided a larger navy to keep pace with its ships of trade. We should have at least as much protection for our ships of trade as Japan is providing for those under its flag."

Prefer New Base to New Ships

Admiral Rodman explained that the navy department has found San Diego to be well suited for a destroyer and aircraft base; that Los Angeles harbor is ideal for a submarine base and that it is necessary to have a main base on San Francisco bay. He stated that naval officers agreed that Mare Island is inadequate as a base for great capital ships and that Alameda has been selected as an ideal point.

The admiral explained that it is necessary to expand the "efficient base at Bremerton, Wash., but the navy must have at least one other base on San Francisco bay." He said that if it came to a decision as to the necessity for building the new San Francisco bay base, as opposed to constructing one or two new capital ships, he would recommend the new base.

Through the International News Service the admiral sent the following message to American men and women:

"If the people in Kansas, in Ohio, in New York, in Maine, or in Florida only realized that it is just as much their interest from a standpoint of national welfare to have adequate facilities for our great fleet on the Pacific as it is for the people of California, or Oregon, or Washington, they would get behind the navy department through their congressmen and senators and boost for the endorsement of the present Pacific coast naval improvement program."

Trout was first officially hatched at Cleveland, O., in 1853.

GRADUATING CLASS OF CITY SCHOOLS NUMBERS 170

Inquiry at the office of Superintendent of Schools Richardson D. White brought out the fact that the graduating class at that school will number from 165 to 170. There are about 20 students in the graduating class of Cerritos avenue, 25 will come from Eagle Rock, about 20 from Glendale and 10 from La Crescenta. These with the enrollment that will come from new families who have moved to Glendale, will swell the total to not less than 300, or almost enough to fill the auditorium of Glendale High independent of other classes.

This new enrollment will not be offset by high school graduations for the senior class, large as it is, numbers about 132 students.

Commencement exercises for the graduates of the grade schools will take place at the Palace Grand theater, June 17.

The high school will hold its commencement at the Glendale theater, June 16. The speaker of the evening will be Perry W. Weidner, a Los Angeles banker, who holds high rank in the business world. He was selected because of his intimate knowledge of the demands of commercial life and what will be required along business lines of the young men and women who are going out from our schools. There will also be a fine musical program which is being arranged by Mrs. Dora Gibson, head of the music department of the high school.

FIRE PROTECTION AT CERRITOS SCHOOL

In reply to inquiries City Manager Watson writes as follows:

Mrs. E. V. Bacon, president Thursday Club, 1330 South San Fernando road, Glendale, Calif.:

Dear Mrs. Bacon—In regard to fire protection for Cerritos avenue school about which you inquired this morning:

There is a fire hydrant located at the intersection of San Fernando road and Brand boulevard. This hydrant is attached to an eight-inch water main and will afford a sufficient supply of water to furnish two streams under pressure from pumping apparatus. There is another hydrant located on Glendale avenue attached to a four-inch water pipe that will supply sufficient water for one stream under pressure from pumping apparatus. I am confident that should a fire occur at the school and the fire department receive prompt report thereof that sufficient water could be obtained from these two hydrants to extinguish it.

We have plans for the extension of a large distribution main along South Brand boulevard that will bring an additional water supply to that vicinity, also for the laying of a large main on South Glendale avenue. In this connection we are glad to say that the $100,000 of water bonds authorized by the voters of the city on March 29 were sold last evening and that these two water mains will be laid from the proceeds of the sale of these bonds along with other mains that are planned to provide better water service and pressure to those portions of the city not amply supplied at the present time. It will be several months, however, before all these mains can be laid. One of the first to be laid will be the main on South Brand boulevard.

Yours very truly,
T. W. WATSON,
City Manager.

FLAGMAN WANTED

W. H. Whalen, Superintendent Southern Pacific lines, Los Angeles, Cal.:
Dear Sir—Pursuant to our telephone conversation of this date relative to the stationing of a flagman at the Brand boulevard crossing over the Southern Pacific right of way:

This matter was called to the attention of the board of trustees at their last meeting, Thursday evening, the 2d instant. It was urged that immediate measures be taken to safeguard motor vehicle traffic at this crossing. It was pointed out that the opening of Glendale boulevard connecting Brand boulevard with the business center of Los Angeles has attracted a large volume of motor vehicle traffic to this route and there is great danger of accidents occurring at this crossing with the possible loss of life.

In view of the foregoing it was urged that the board of trustees call the Southern Pacific company's attention to this immediately with request that a flagman be placed at this crossing without delay until such time as plans may be worked out for some suitable automatic signal device that might be operated from the signal tower now stationed at this crossing.

We appreciate your prompt response to our telephone message of this date in regard to this matter to the effect that you will investigate it immediately and report without delay.

Sign the Petition

Editor Glendale Daily Press: May I be permitted to say a few words to the citizenship of Glendale through your valuable paper regarding our postoffice?

The Chamber of Commerce after many urgent requests from the citizens of this city has undertaken the task of putting the question up to our government of giving to this city such a postoffice as a community of 16,000 to 18,000 people is entitled to.

The matter has been referred to a special committee of which Dr. Henry R. Harrower is the chairman. This committee has gone into the matter most carefully from every angle and has rendered efficient and valuable service to the Chamber of Commerce and to the people at large. The committee has sent out postal cards and questionnaires and endeavored in every possible way to ascertain the desires of our people in regard to an independent postoffice.

I am informed by Dr. Harrower that the result of their investigations has been almost unanimous in favor of an independent postoffice for this city.

In the face of this investigation the committee caused petitions to be circulated and placed in the banks, drug stores, the Chamber of Commerce and other public places, and the result is that, without any undue solicitation, fully 1000 have signed the petitions. But this showing is not sufficient to warrant going before the government on this important matter, and I wish to say the citizenship and taxpayers of this wonderful city that this is right up to you.

If you have any desire for an independent postoffice, if you have any desire and pride that the fair name of Glendale should be placed on the maps of this country (as most maps are built from postoffice guides and data), I urge you to sign one of these petitions. If you have any desire that mail arriving in and leaving Glendale should go direct, instead of coming and going through Los Angeles, and thereby being delayed for one or more days, sign these petitions that are being circulated. If you have any desire to have a large number of people living in the northwestern part of the city and adjacent thereto get their mail without having it sent from Glendale to Los Angeles and then from Los Angeles to Burbank, where it is distributed through rural delivery, sometimes several days after it is sent, sign one of the post-office petitions.

If you have any desire that some day Glendale might have a handsome federal building, adding stability and permanency to our city, and if you have any desire to be an independent people free from the sovereignty and political dictation of anyone, and to have a voice in the management of your own affairs and the shaping of the destiny of your own city, then I ask and urge those of you who do have such desires to at once sign one of the petitions asking for these things.

There are arguments used by those in favor of annexing to Los Angeles that in case annexation should come to pass we would not require an independent postoffice for Glendale. I beg to point out that San Pedro was annexed to Los Angeles, and they have their separate and independent postoffice and are vastly benefited in distinction to some other localities that have been annexed to Los Angeles and not had their independent postoffices.

The petitions in favor of an independent postoffice for Glendale have been in circulation for several days, and we will keep them open for signatures until next Monday evening, June 6. To those of you who are interested may we ask that you assist us by signing one of these petitions today. Very respectfully yours,

JAMES M. RHOADES,
Secretary Chamber of Commerce.
Approved: Henry R. Harrower, chairman of committee on postoffice.

New Thought Center

Editor Glendale Press: Some years ago a New Thought Center was formed in Glendale. For many months lectures were delivered by various exponents of the philosophy, when a number of people became sufficiently interested in the teaching that they arranged for a lecturer who could fill the position for an indefinite period in the person of Dr. Frank L. Riley, author, lecturer and metaphysician of international fame, who is lecturing each Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, a. m.

To date the "Center" has been conducted more as a class than a public meeting, although the public has always been welcome.

With but the slightest publicity his audience has grown to such proportions that it has been decided to evolve into a permanent organization, enter upon a campaign of publicity in order that a greater number may learn of the exceptional opportunity of listening to this versatile scholar.

LOVERS OF SCENIC BEAUTY SHOULD INTERVIEW W. L. TWINING

To meet the ever-increasing demand for property of the picturesque Verdugo Woodlands type at a comparatively low price, the F. P. Newport Company (owners and developers of the Verdugo property), announces the opening of a new subdivision Sunday, June 5. According to W. L. Twining of the Newport office, the new tract, while consistently removed from the highly restricted Verdugo Woodlands proper, it nevertheless enjoys all the alluring scenic features of the original subdivision.

"The people wanted something up here at rock-bottom price and we have decided to give it to them," said Mr. Twining yesterday. This subdivision embraces absolutely everything that resulted in the sale of over $550,000 worth of homesites in Verdugo Woodlands. It commands the same foothill and mountain views, and it has the same woodland charm—giant, live-oaks, running streams, climate, elevation, perpetual greenness, access to carline, paved boulevards, etc."

"We have decided to offer the people this exclusive type of property for as little as $700 per lot and on easy buying terms too. I haven't the slightest doubt but that we could obtain far more money for the land in a year or two. However, we have decided to part with a small portion of our Verdugo holdings at a close margin of profit to meet a popular demand."

"Since 1860 Angelinos have ridden and trekked up the winding road to Verdugo park for week-end enjoyment. During the long, hot dry season no other close-in spot offered such cool, refreshing greenness. No other place so close to the city possessed such an abundance of natural tree growth, ferns, mosses, flowers, perpetually flowing streams and cool shade. It has ever been a green oasis for lovers of the outdoors. With the opening of our new subdivision, which is less than 30 minutes from Los Angeles, the tired business or professional man, for a small outlay of money, can build himself a delightful retreat amid this restful environment. The prices are so low, that he can really afford to maintain an establishment up here for just week-end purposes."

The property is but five minutes' ride from the center of Glendale with its schools, churches, clubs, markets, stores, theaters, etc.

THEFTS OF TOOLS NOT UNCOMMON

Albert E. Hewitt reports that a kit of tools was stolen from the back of his automobile on Thursday evening about 9 o'clock, while it was parked in front of the Glendale theater.

Mr. Hewitt says he was in a store not more than 50 feet away, where he could see his machine plainly. The tools were in their proper place, but were not locked in. Mr. Hewitt was away from his machine about half an hour.

MALE QUARTET FEATURES SERVICE

A feature of the evening service at the First Congregational church tomorrow, will be the singing of "Some Blessed Day" by a quartet composed of Messrs. Comfort, Hayward, Draper and Abell.

historian and expounder of the Bible and the teachings of Jesus.

Dr. Riley shows in his simple and at the same time, irrefutable manner, that the sayings and teaching of Jesus were invariably in the form of allegory, as was also with the conversation and writing of the people of the time of Jesus.

Such being the unanswerable facts in the case not alone lays bare the erroneous teaching of orthodoxy of literal interpretation but is the answer why the great mass of the people do not accept the orthodox plan of salvation. Also the necessity of importing into various communities a sensational evangelist to, first of all, re-enthuse the congealed church members.

If you have not delegated to someone the responsibility of dictating what you must believe or be cast into hell, if you still have any initiative left, if you dare to use your God-given reason and think for yourself you are welcome to attend the above named lectures at place and time indicated.

SALE REMINDS OF GOOD OLD TIMES

It looks like old times to see such a "10c" window display as is to be found today in the window of Neale & Gregg after the months and years in which we have had to accustom ourselves to paying from one bit to four bits for almost all the little pick-ups that are needed in furnishing a kitchen and after the dearth of tinware of every description, in the window are such old friends as fancy cookie cutters, pie tins, gem pans, quart measures, graters, sieves, soap baskets, knives and forks, dust pans and potato mashers. We are surely getting back to pre-war days.

BEE HIVES OF RANCH ARE RAIDED BY BAD BOYS

Mischiefous boys who probably do not realize the gravity of their offense, have been raiding the apiaries of W. H. Reynolds on Kenneth road. Two nights ago they stole two frames of honey and killed a lot of bees. Last night they came again and Mr. Reynolds imagines that the bees must have organized for defense because there was evidence around the hives that the marauders beat a hasty retreat. A cap and several other souvenirs of the visit were left. In speaking of the matter, Mrs. Reynolds is philosophical and expresses the belief that the boys did not appreciate the harm they were doing and she is confident that their parents would not endorse such conduct. No complaint has been made to the police and if the boys will return to the ranch and apologize for their mischief, the cap and other belongings will be restored to them. Meanwhile, if juveniles with badly swollen faces or hands that seem to be the result of bee stings are observed, parents may know where it happened.

WORK HARD

If all the howlers about unrest and unsettled conditions would work so hard they'd need a rest there would be less unrest and more settled conditions. Too much talking and too little doing helps create the unrest.

One of the great faults of the day is that everyone questions everything. We are all asking ourselves whether this or that isn't wrong, instead of working to find what is right.

The business development and the growth of our industries has been so marvelous that, unquestionably, there must be adjustments. These, however, must work themselves out, and criticizing and doubting will not solve the problem.

LARGE AMOUNT IN COUNTY TREASURY

The count of the funds in the hands of County Treasurer Hunt, made by Chairman Dodge, Auditor Payne and Deputy Von Cott, representing the district attorney's office, shows that the treasurer has on hand the very large sum of $16,984,009.08. The greater portion of this large fund is either deposited or stored in the safety deposit vaults of the banks of the city, but over two millions is in the safe of the treasurer, which has just been given additional protection by the installation of the latest burglar alarm system, with call bells to the sheriff's office and to other departments of the county.

This large amount does not include a million and a half dollars of surplus funds invested by the county in Liberty Bonds and state highway bonds.

It was stated by Chairman Dodge that the amount of money on hand in the treasury was the largest in the history of the county at this time of the year.

"KINDNESS"

Orison Swett Marden says "If I were asked to give, in one word the summum bonum of life I think it would be 'Kindness.'"

A spirit of kindness is the mark of a great soul. Envy, jealousy, a disposition to keep from others the credit that is their due, are indications of a small nature, a pinched mentality. Largeness of nature and breadth of character are always accompanied by a kindly spirit.

The way to obtain it, if one lacks it, is, in the words of Hamlet, to "assume the virtue, if we have it not." The habit of saying kind things of others, of always trying to see the good in them will grow with practice, until at last, through its use, we shall be large enough to see God in the meanness of these, our neighbors. We should be at least as generous in judging others as we are in judging ourselves, as tolerant of their weaknesses as we are of our own. When one has formed the habit of holding the kindly attitude toward everyone he will find his mind lifted above petty jealousies and meannesses and his whole life enlarged.

Kindness is practical Christianity. Most people, or, at least, many people, realize this as they near the close of life. To realize it sooner is to save oneself the regrets for unkind thoughts and words and deeds that ripened experience brings. The man or woman who knows that the most important thing in the world is plain, old-fashioned kindness possesses the recipe for a useful happy life.

GRAVE AND GAY

Two brawny men were discussing a mutual friend. One said: "Naow, I tell yer, Bert aint no blinkin' good. Worryin' kind of blighter 'e is." The other agreed. "Ho, yus. Bert is the kind of blowk that puts on a pair of gloves to do a job o' work, an' then does it wiv 'is feet."

The sweet young thing had been unable to buy the article she wanted, but in each case the clerk assured her that "next time" it would assuredly be in stock. One day she called at the store to find a new clerk on the job. "Do you have spats yet?" she inquired. The clerk blushed. "No, ma'am," he stammered; "I'm not living with my wife now."

Miss Alice Paul of the Women's national party said in a lecture on feminism: "Nothing angers a woman more than an unjust accusation. Would you rouse the sleeping tiger in the economical housewife's breast? Then accuse her of extravagance. An economical housewife told her husband the other morning that she'd have to ask him for a dollar more a week on account of the high cost of living. 'I'll try and give you a half-dollar,' he grumbled. 'That's the best I can do. You're pretty extravagant, Amelia.' 'Me, extravagant?' And Amelia laughed bitterly. 'Well, James, I don't see how you can call a woman extravagant who has saved her wedding dress for over 30 years on the chance that she may yet make a second marriage.'"

"Mrs. Flanagan," said the landlord, "I've decided to raise your rent." "Ah, now," beamed Mrs. Flanagan. "It's the darlint ye certinly are. I wor wonderin' how I cud raise it meself, sor."

Up to the time of the Revolution, no country in England was more thoroughly English than the New England colonies.

He was a professional conjurer. "Now, ladies and gentlemen," he said, with a wave of the hand, "this is a magic cabinet. I invite any lady in the audience to enter this cabinet. I will close the door, and when it shall be opened again the lady will have disappeared, leaving no trace." There was an impressive silence until a little under-sized man in the second row turned to an enormous woman who sat by him and breathed eagerly: "Marie, dear, won't you oblige the gentleman?"

Colonel George Harvey said at a dinner in New York apropos of high retail prices: "A guest in a Florida hotel complained to the manager: 'Your restaurant is conducted in a very rotten way. At lunch today I found a hair in the ice cream, a hair in the honey, and a hair in the apple sauce.' 'Well, you see,' the manager explained, 'the hair in the ice cream came from the shaving of the ice. The hair in the honey comes from, I suppose, the comb. But I can't for the life of me understand about the hair in the apple sauce, for I bought those apples myself, and they were all Baldwins.'"

The lord mayor of Cork said at a Washington dinner: "In a Pennsylvania mining town a number of miners were talking the other day about the hard times. A miner called 'Johnny Bull' scowled at another one known as 'Scotty' and said: 'There's too much immigration allowed. We've got too many Scotchmen over here. That's the trouble.' 'You're a liar!' Scotty retorted. 'The English is the country's bane.' The next instant Johnny Bull and Scotty were at it, hammer and tongs. The fight raged fiercely for ten minutes or so. Then Scotty said, as he spat out a tooth: 'I'm kind of foolish to be fightin' for the Scotch, bein' as I'm an Irishman.' 'Bogobos, don't that beat all?' said Johnny Bull. 'I'm an Irishman, too?'"

A Taffeta Cape

To wear to and from the party a smart cape of taffeta is made with three crisp flounces. The deep yoke fits the shoulders snugly. The lining is pale pink mousseline de soie over yellow. The tint thus achieved by this alliance is simply exquisite. This novel cape fastens all the way down the front, with flat bows of green velvet ribbon.

Very chic this frock composed of a melange of rose crepe de chine and silver lace. The bodice and underskirt are of crepe de chine, while the three wide flounces of the skirt and the tiny puff sleeves are of silver lace. Each flounce edged with a narrow ruche of natter blue velvet ribbon. The waist is encircled by a garland of roses made of old ivory chiffon.

Many new dresses have widely flaring skirts, the fullness placed on the side, while front and back remain just as flat as possible.

Series of Articles on Patents, Inventions, Etc.

By WILLIAM C. CUTLER of Glendale, California

ABANDONMENT

Commotion is not a sign of accomplishment with inventors.

Abandonment means, as this word is used in connection with invention, a relinquishment of more or less valuable rights on the part of the inventor, and is rarely wilful. It occurs, in the majority of cases from the lack of knowledge of the statutes governing invention; misinformation with relation to them; lack of funds to proceed with the development of the invention, procrastination, "putting off until tomorrow" on the part of the inventor, or neglect on the part of the attorney.

False impressions in relation to the "right of experiment" have resulted in the form of "abandonment" which prevents patenting or invalidates a patent. The most prevalent one is, that if a device has not arrived at its ultimate form, it is still within the meaning of the "experimental" stage, and, consequently, may be used in a manner which would otherwise constitute public use. The courts do not sustain this view. A thing which would come within the definition substantially completed, is complete. Numerous infringement cases in which abandonment has been the ruling question of importance have been litigated in the courts.

The questions and answers in this chapter suggest the care which a manufacturer should exercise when purchasing an invention. If he is unacquainted with its development, he should acquaint himself with the date of conception, when and where experiments were first conducted; if put in use, when and where and for how long.

If used both experimentally and publicly, totalling more than two years, he should positively substantiate the date given, as being the first public operation.

Q.—Abandonment. Is there more than one kind?

A.—Yes.

Q.—What are they?

1. Abandonment of an experiment.
2. Abandonment of an operative invention.
3. Abandonment of a patent application.
4. Express abandonment.
5. Abandonment of trade-mark.
6. Experimental abandonment.

What constitutes an?

A.—An experimental device abandoned, intentionally or otherwise, is one which has never been subjected to a test.

Q.—Effect of abandoned experiment. Has it any effect on future applications for a patent on a similar device?

A.—It will not defeat a subsequent application.

Q.—Operative invention. Abandonment. What constitutes such?

A.—Putting the invention into ordinary or public use. Because the device was susceptible of further improvement will not relieve it of "abandonment," if it had been publicly used.

Q.—Operative abandonment. Will it defeat a future application for a patent if the applicant is unaware of the fact that the invention has been put in operation?

A.—Yes. The prior invention has become public property.

Q.—Abandonment of an invention and abandonment of a patent application. Is there a difference?

A.—Yes.

Q.—What is the difference?

A.—In the former case the inventor loses all right of patent, the latter admits of renewal under certain conditions.

Q.—Abandoned patent application. What constitutes?

A.—Failure of the attorney for one year to reply to patent examiner's amendment action.

Q.—Renewal of abandoned application. Can it be secured and how?

A.—Yes, by practically renewing the application and satisfying the commissioner of patents delay was unavoidable.

Q.—Forfeited application. What is a?

A.—One in which the final government fee has not been paid within six months from its allowance.

Q.—Renewal of forfeited application. Can it be secured and how?

A.—Yes, by making application within two years from date of allowance, accompanied by a fee of $15.

Q.—Express abandonment. What is an?

A.—When an inventor wishes to dedicate his invention to the public he makes an "express" abandonment. In other words so expresses himself when making his patent application.

Q.—Delay in perfecting. Will it result in abandonment?

A.—If one delays in perfecting an invention, and some other person is diligent and reduces the idea to practice, the original party will have been deemed to have abandoned it." Court decision.

Q.—Faithful and diligent experimenting. Can it be considered abandonment and will it prevent a patent being granted?

A.—No. "Forbearance to apply for a patent during the progress of experiment, and until the party has perfected his invention and tested the value by practical experiment, affords no ground for presumption of abandonment." Court decision.

Q.—Is neglect to "claim" what is described in the specification, "abandonment?"

A.—Yes. Positively. This results from neglect or inexperience of the patent attorney. A company in which the writer was interested lost a valuable invention through the incompetence of the attorney who prosecuted the patent, and failed to make proper claims, in a broad invention. This indicates the advantage of engaging a competent attorney, one who knows his business and will give you the full benefit of his knowledge.

Q.—Attorney's assent to a patent examiner's requirement that claims be narrowed. Does it lose the inventor's strength as indicated by the specifications, or as may be corroborated by the state of the inventive art at the time?

A.—Yes; "where an applicant acquiesces (agrees) in the narrowing of a claim he cannot afterward broaden it to cover infringement." A decision of the circuit court of appeals.

Fifty-First Convention to Convene In Denver

President Gompers to Address Gathering on Great Labor Issues—Building Trades, Labor Trades and Metal Trades to Hold Special Sessions

By MICHAEL F. DACEY
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
DENVER, June 4.—When the American Federation of Labor opens its 41st annual convention here on June 13, it will mark the first time in its existence that the great labor organization has been entertained for the third time by the same city.
Previous conventions were held in Denver in 1894 and in 1908.
The 1921 convention is expected to be the largest ever held in point of delegates present and work to be accomplished. The sessions will continue probably two weeks.
The main convention will be preceded by sessions of several departmental branches of the national labor body, the building trades council meeting on June 8, the metal trades on the same day; on June 9 the Labor Trades Assembly will convene; the mining department will hold sessions June 10 and on June 11 the International Labor Press Association will hold forth.

To Muster 40,000 Votes
On Monday, June 13, the main convention of the American Federation of Labor will be covered in the Municipal Auditorium. More than 700 duly elected delegates from the United States and Canada, with a voting strength approximating 30,000 of the 40,000 votes in the general assembly of the federation, will be in attendance, according to figures given out by Ed Anderson, secretary of the Colorado State Federation of Labor, at the Denver headquarters.
In addition, fraternal delegates representing organized labor bodies in England, France, Australia, Japan and Mexico will occupy seats on the floor of the convention. J. H. Thomas, M. P., widely known English labor leader, will be a prominent figure in the foreign contingent.

Addresses of welcome will be delivered by Gov. O. H. Shoup of Colorado, Gov. Robert D. Carey of Wyoming, and Mayor Dewey C. Bailey of Denver.
Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, will respond to the welcoming speeches.
"Open Shop" Fight Mars Meet
Following addresses by former Congressman Edward Keating, head of the Plumb Plan League, and James C. Bulger, president of the Colorado Federation of Labor, the convention will be formally opened for consideration of many of the most vital problems that have ever come before the national assembly.
Despite lack of cooperation from business and civic organizations because, it is claimed, of the determined "open" shop fight that has been waged in Colorado for many months, an extensive program of entertainment for the visiting delegates and those who will accompany them has been completed by S. P. Oplinger, chairman of the general committee on arrangements, and Ed C. Davis, who is in charge of publicity. With funds contributed by the 40,000 union workers in Colorado and Wyoming, the visitors will be treated to views of many of the scenic wonders of the Rocky mountain region.

Reservations have been made at ten leading hotels for 2000 visitors during the convention sessions.
A real "thriller" on the entertainment program is a passenger train climb of over 11,000 feet to Corona, Colo., at the summit of the Continental Divide. Automobile tours of the Denver and Rocky Mountain national parks will be a feature, and facilities for sightseeing trips to Pike's Peak, Lookout mountain and other famous peaks and canyons will be afforded the visitors. A visit to the Printers' Home in Colorado Springs is also being arranged.

Foresee End of Gompers' Rule
Widespread reports that opposition is crystallizing in national labor circles to the re-election of the veteran, Samuel Gompers, to the presidency of the federation, are given little credence by Colorado leaders in the labor movement.
Frank J. Hayes, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, who now makes his home in this city, and who is in close touch with John L. Lewis, president of the miners' organization, the man who has been frequently mentioned as a candidate for the chief executiveship of the American Federation, frowns upon all suggestions that Lewis will make a fight for the place.
President Johnson of the International Machinists' Union, a bitter critic of Gompers, and who has wielded much influence in previous conventions of the federation, is said to be in Russia and will not return in time to attend the sessions here.

It is pointed out, however, by some who oppose the Gompers regime that "superstitious indications" lead to the belief that Gompers' long career at the head of the American Federation will come to a close at the 1921 convention. As a basis for this belief, they recall that the only time Gompers met defeat for the presidency was at the first convention held in Denver in 1894, when John McBride was elected for a one-year term, the only hiatus in Gompers' continuous reign since his first election in 1882. They also cite the fact that the convention convenes on the "unlucky 13th," which, they believe, will be an ill omen for the aged labor leader.

DO NOT KNOW COMMANDMENTS

(By International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 4.—District Attorney Lewis, speaking before the South Congregational church, Brooklyn, told of a recent test in a Brooklyn public school, made at his request, to ascertain how many of the pupils knew the ten commandments.

Out of 1373 children questioned 499 did not know the commandments and 351 children had never heard of them. Asked to repeat the commandments some of the pupils gave these answers:
The first commandment is not to shoot craps.
Don't marry.
Do not make love to your neighbor's wife.
There shall be light.
The ten commandments were the ten amendments to the constitution.
Children must keep off the steps of street cars.
Not to swear for anything.
Don't hitch on wagons.
Don't crook anything.
Love thy neighbor's wife.
Don't swindle.
There shall be water.
Mr. Lewis declined to give the number of the school in which the test was made, but he declared it illustrated the need of some sort of moral and religious training for these children.

FOR INFORMATION OF MEMBERS OF THE CLERGY AND TEACHERS

Origin
The citizens' military training camps described in this statement are the direct outgrowth of the Plattsburg, N. Y., camps of 1913-14-15. Firmly believing not only that properly conducted military training directly contributes to the physical, mental and moral development of those participating, but that the building of such real Americans is a patriotic duty, since it provides one of the surest safeguards against war and an important element in the national defense, several thousand citizens in these years enthusiastically devoted their time and money to the promotion of a concise and comprehensive plan by means of which these benefits could be secured for as large a number as possible.

University Indorsement
The advisory committee of university presidents in its 1915 report of the Plattsburg camps stated: "We repeat the hearty indorsement given in our reports on camps held in 1913 and 1914. We commend the camps to the authorities and students of the universities and colleges of the country. We also believe that the training given is excellent and of great benefit, mentally and physically, to the students attending."

Included in Army Reorganization Act
On June 4, 1920, congress incorporated the essential features of this plan into legislation providing for the coordination of military and civilian agencies in a comprehensive system of national defense. Under the provisions of this act the war department is now authorized to conduct camps each summer for the training of American citizens between the ages of 16 and 35 years. The 1921 camps will be conducted during July and August.

At Government Expense
In the past each citizen attending these camps did so at his own expense. The cost, while not large, barred many who were desirous of attending.
The present law makes the citizens' military training camps part of a national system of training for the national defense. Therefore the new law provides also that the government pay all expenses of conducting the camps, furnishing uniforms and equipment, food and living accommodations, also medical and emergency dental treatment.

Citizens attending camps will be under no obligation other than strict attention to instructions and observance of regulations during the training period.
Purpose
The preface of the regulations for the citizens' military training camps thus admirably states the purpose they are designed to serve: "To bring together young men of all types, both native and foreign-born; to develop closer national and social unity, to teach the privileges, duties and responsibilities of American citizenship. To show the public by actual example that camp instruction of the kind contemplated will be to the liking of their sons; that it will develop them physically, mentally and morally; and will teach them Americanism in its true sense."

Attendance to Be Representative
In cooperation with the government many large business firms throughout the United States have from time to time signified their willingness to grant employees time of with no deduction of wages in order that they may attend these camps. Thus not only may citizens generally receive this splendid training which will be of the greatest benefit to them in energizing their bodies, quickening their minds and strengthening their characters, without any expense on their own part for the privileges offered, but in many cases without even the loss of their customary wages. We may reasonably expect, therefore, that the camps will secure a thoroughly representative body of men.

Young Men Encouraged to Attend Camps

The greatest response to the announcement of the opening of these camps will naturally be from young men. Clergymen, educators and others, who realize the benefits these young men will receive may render a patriotic service to their country by encouraging young men to attend the camps. Such prominent clergymen as Archbishop Hayes of New York, Bishop Manning of New York and others have given their hearty indorsement of the plan.

Certificates of Character Necessary

Every effort will be made to safeguard the standards of the citizens' military training camps by encouraging attendance only of moral and upright men. A certificate of character will, therefore, be required from all applicants. This certificate may be given him by a schoolmaster, clergyman, priest or rabbi, and space for this purpose is provided on the application blanks, furnished applicants.

Application blanks may be obtained from the following: Major M. P. Vestal, 227 North Cedar street. Phone 1997-J. Captain Thomas D. Watson, 222 South Brand boulevard. Phone 97. Lieutenant Norman C. Hayhurst, Glendale High School.

There never was a time when saving was so profitable as now.
Wages are high. But—prices are also high and a dollar buys only about half as much as it once bought.
Every penny that prices drop adds a penny to the purchasing value of your dollar.
Prices now show a downward trend. Why, then, spend your dollars when they are increasing in value?

STUDIO NEWS AND GOSSIP

American Comedies Supreme
C. H. Christie, general manager of the Christie Film company, is of the opinion that the reported invasion of foreign films will in no way affect the American comedy situation. "Foreigners have attempted our style of light comedy," says Christie, "and their attempts have never registered successfully, so we have nothing to fear from invasion at this end of the market. We are still the leaders in light comedy on this side and have no fears for our laurels."

Sought Wilds for Inspiration
Benjamin B. Hampton has finished filming Zane Grey's story, "The Mysterious Riders," and is now at work on his next production, the title of which has not yet been announced. Mr. Hampton invaded the wilds of the Sierra Nevada mountains and remained there four days while putting on the finishing touches of his forthcoming photo-dramatization. Mr. Hampton was well-known twenty years ago as the publisher of Hampton's Magazine.

Sea water contains certain ingredients, such as compounds of iodine, which makes it useful as an internal medicine in certain illnesses.

Mildred Harris will go the vaudeville route, beginning in September.

"Night Scene" Discovery

Edwin Carewe, Anita Stewart's director, is credited with having made an important photographic discovery tending to do away with the photographing of the exterior of houses at night or the coloring of a film in order to get a night effect. He has learned that by shooting an ordinary "still" picture of a house, enlarging it and then cutting out the windows and inserting lights behind them that a more natural picture of the exterior of a house at night can be obtained. He has also found that pictures of dancers can be put behind the windows and that a beautiful silhouette effect is the result. This discovery means that a director can send to any part of the world for a "still" picture of a certain house and make a real moving picture night scene of the same house without leaving the studio.

Wheeler Oakman, star of "The Half Breed," has refused to enter vaudeville in a tabloid play of the thrill sort.

Skeletons and cremated ashes of human beings buried about 2000 B. C., have been found in England.

Anita Stewart's current picture, "A Question of Honor," is a society drama which opens with scenes in a mining camp.

This is a stupendous program, involving as it does the expenditure of close to three-quarters of a billion dollars. Such development, if carried out on the lines shown by the filings with the commission, eventually will care for all of California's industrial needs for many years to come. It will supply the much-needed power to the factories, to the fields and orchards for irrigation, and to the utilities for light, heat and transportation.

There are also on file with the commission concrete figures which show the potential capacity of California's streams in the development of hydro-electric energy for power purposes. These figures show a total maximum of 9,250,000 H. P. which may be developed from water courses within the state. The amount for which applications for water have been received by the commission is 5,590,000 H. P., while the permits already issued call for the development of 243,000 H. P.

With regard to the use of water for purposes of irrigation, our figures show that the total area in California which is possible of being irrigated amounts to 9,699,000 acres, while applications for the use of water on a total area of 10,890,000 acres have been received. The area for which permits for the use of water for agricultural purposes have been granted by the commission totals 618,400 acres.

JINGLING JOHNSON FLINGS A FEW KNOCKS AT FLIES

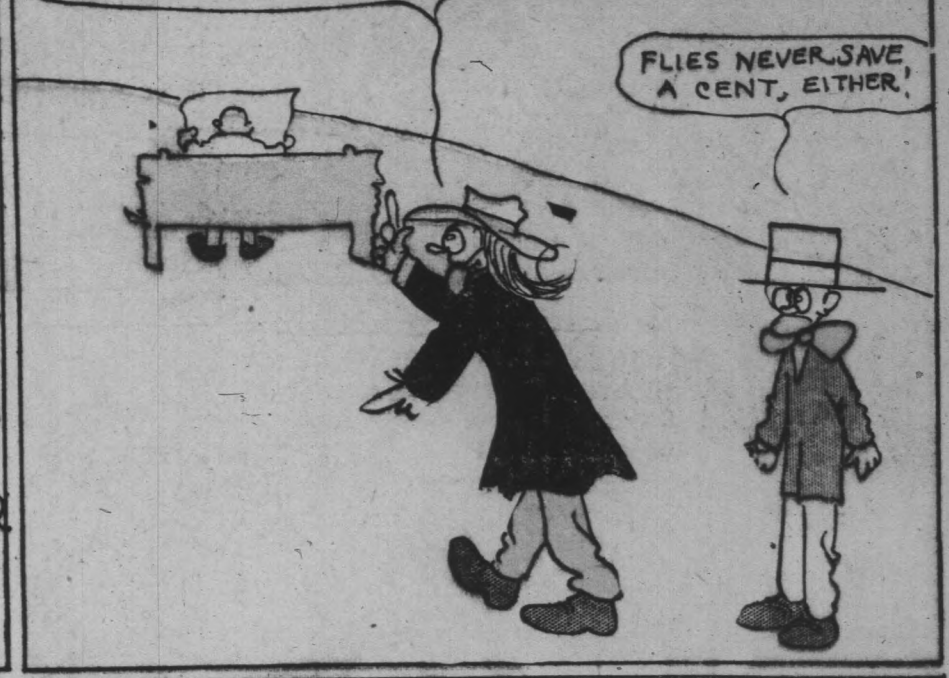

FLIES ARE THINGS WITH LEGS AND WINGS AND STOMACHS FULL OF GERMS. THEY GET ON MEAT AND WASH THEIR FEET AND HATCH OUT GRUBS AND WORMS. THEY GET ON HEADS DEVOID OF HAIR AND HOLD A FULL DRESS BALL - THEY BUZZ AND BOW, THE LEADER SHOUTS CHANGE PARTNERS, BALANCE ALL!

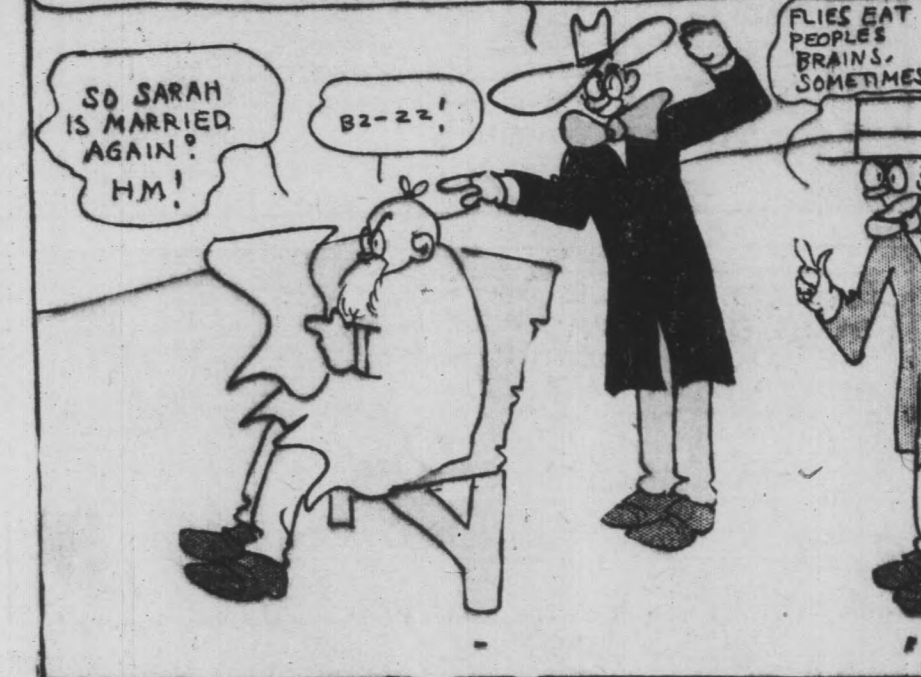

THEY BITE AND GNAW POOR FIDO'S EARS. THEY GET ON BABY'S TOES. THEY WADDLE IN THE BUTTER-DISH, AND THEN ON PAPA'S NOSE. NO PLACE IS SACRED, NONE EXEMPT FROM THESE ANNOYING FLIES. THEY JUST DELIGHT IN SYRUP AND THEY PROSPER IN MINCE PIES.

I KNEW A MAN IN LUMBERVILLE, WHOM FLIES DROVE MOST TO DEATH. HE CURSED THE NASTY BUZZING THINGS TILL HE WAS OUT OF BREATH. THEN HE CRAWLED IN A DEEP DARK HOLE AND RESTED UP A SPELL - REGAINED HIS STRENGTH - CAME OUT AND SAID - THESE FLIES CAN GO TO - CANNEN

SO START AN ANTI-FLY CAMPAIGN. WHEN EVER YOU SEE FLIES, JUST MARK ONE OUT AND TAKE YOUR FIST AND POUND HIM TILL HE DIES. THIS PAPER DOES NOT SANCTION FLIES - THEY GET IN PRINTING INK, AND THAT IS WHY THE COMIC PAGES GO UPON THE BLINK!

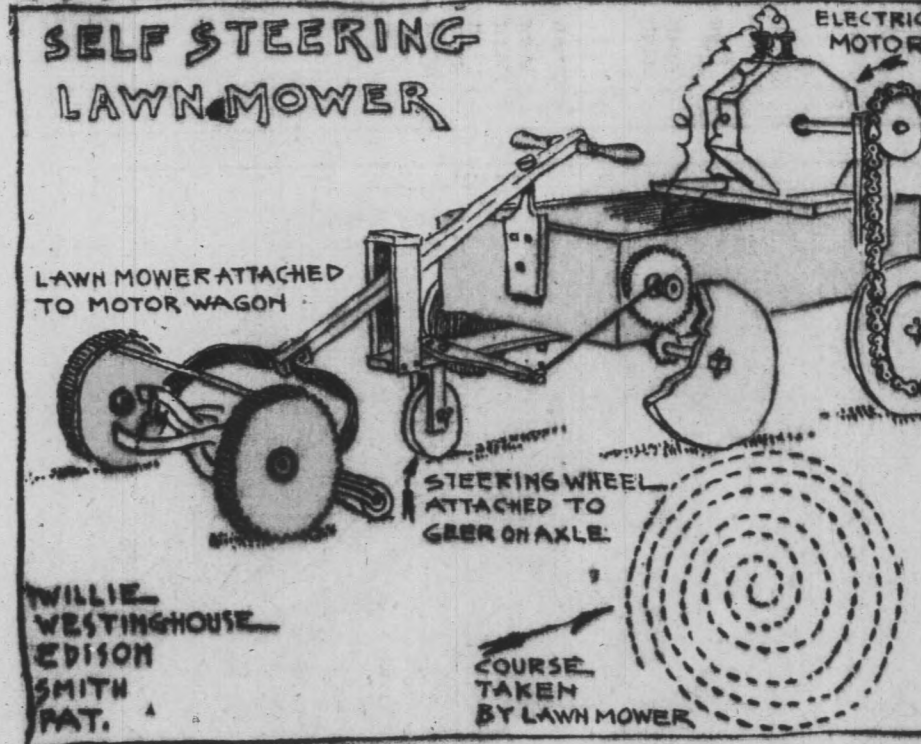

MUSCA DOMESTICA IS HIS NAME AND THAT MEANS SUMPIN' BAD. AN AWFUL NAME TO CARRY ROUND, IT MAKES THE FLY REAL MAD, AND THAT IS WHY HE TAKES REVENGE ON HEADS AND OTHER THINGS HE LIKES TO CRAWL INTO YOUR EAR AND BUZZ HIS NOISY WINGS!

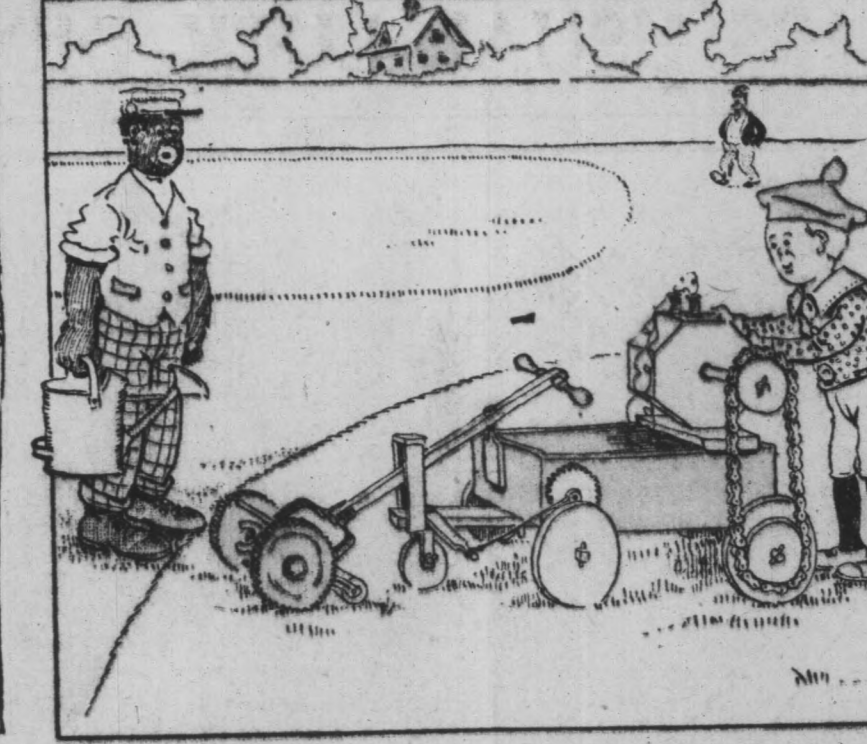

SO DOWN WITH FLIES. CONFOUND THEIR EYES AND ALDERMAN'S STOMACHS! THEY CRAWL ALIKE ON KINGS AND QUEENS AND FAT, BUCOLIC LUMMUK. THEY'RE SAUCY, FRESH AND NOISY, TOO, AND FRIENDLY AS THE DIKENS. SO LETS BE THANKFUL THAT THE FLIES ARE NOT AS BIG AS CHICKENS!

WILLIE WESTINGHOUSE AND PAPA HAVE A NARROW ESCAPE

Dear Tommy: This lawn mower runs in a constantly diminishing circle. You start it on the outside and it brings up in the centre.

It's a great labor saver, and Papa said he would get it patented.

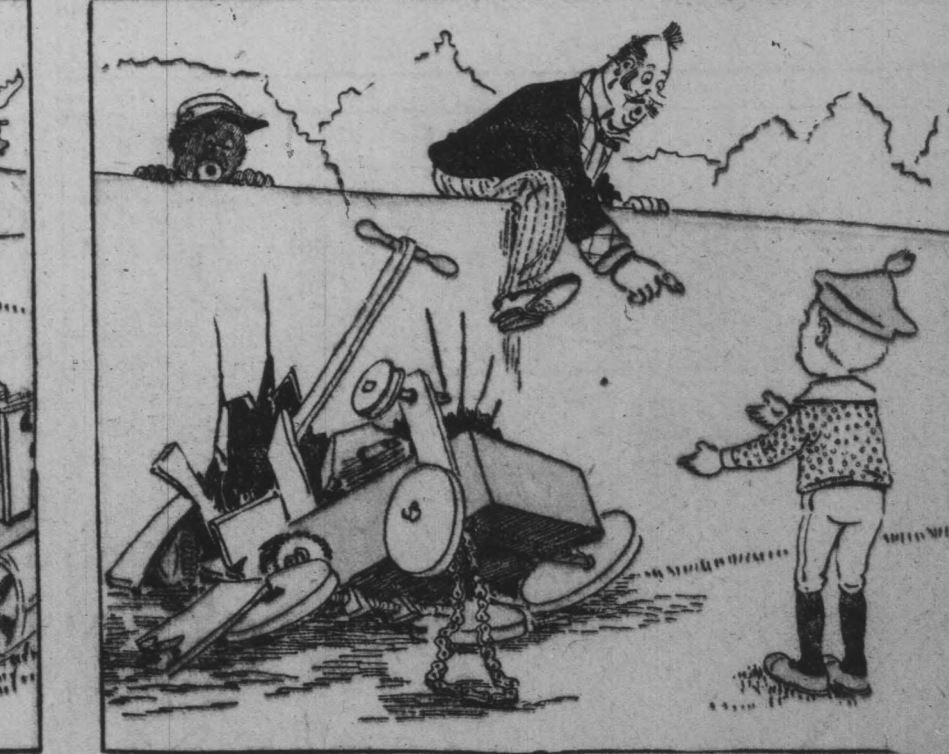

It was running beautifully when the cord leading to the axle broke.

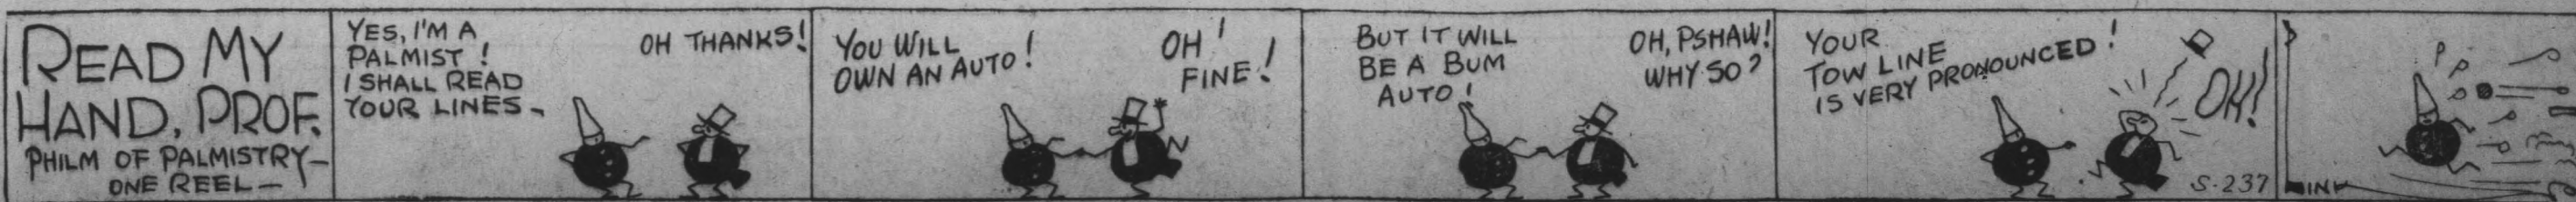

Then it commenced to run wild.

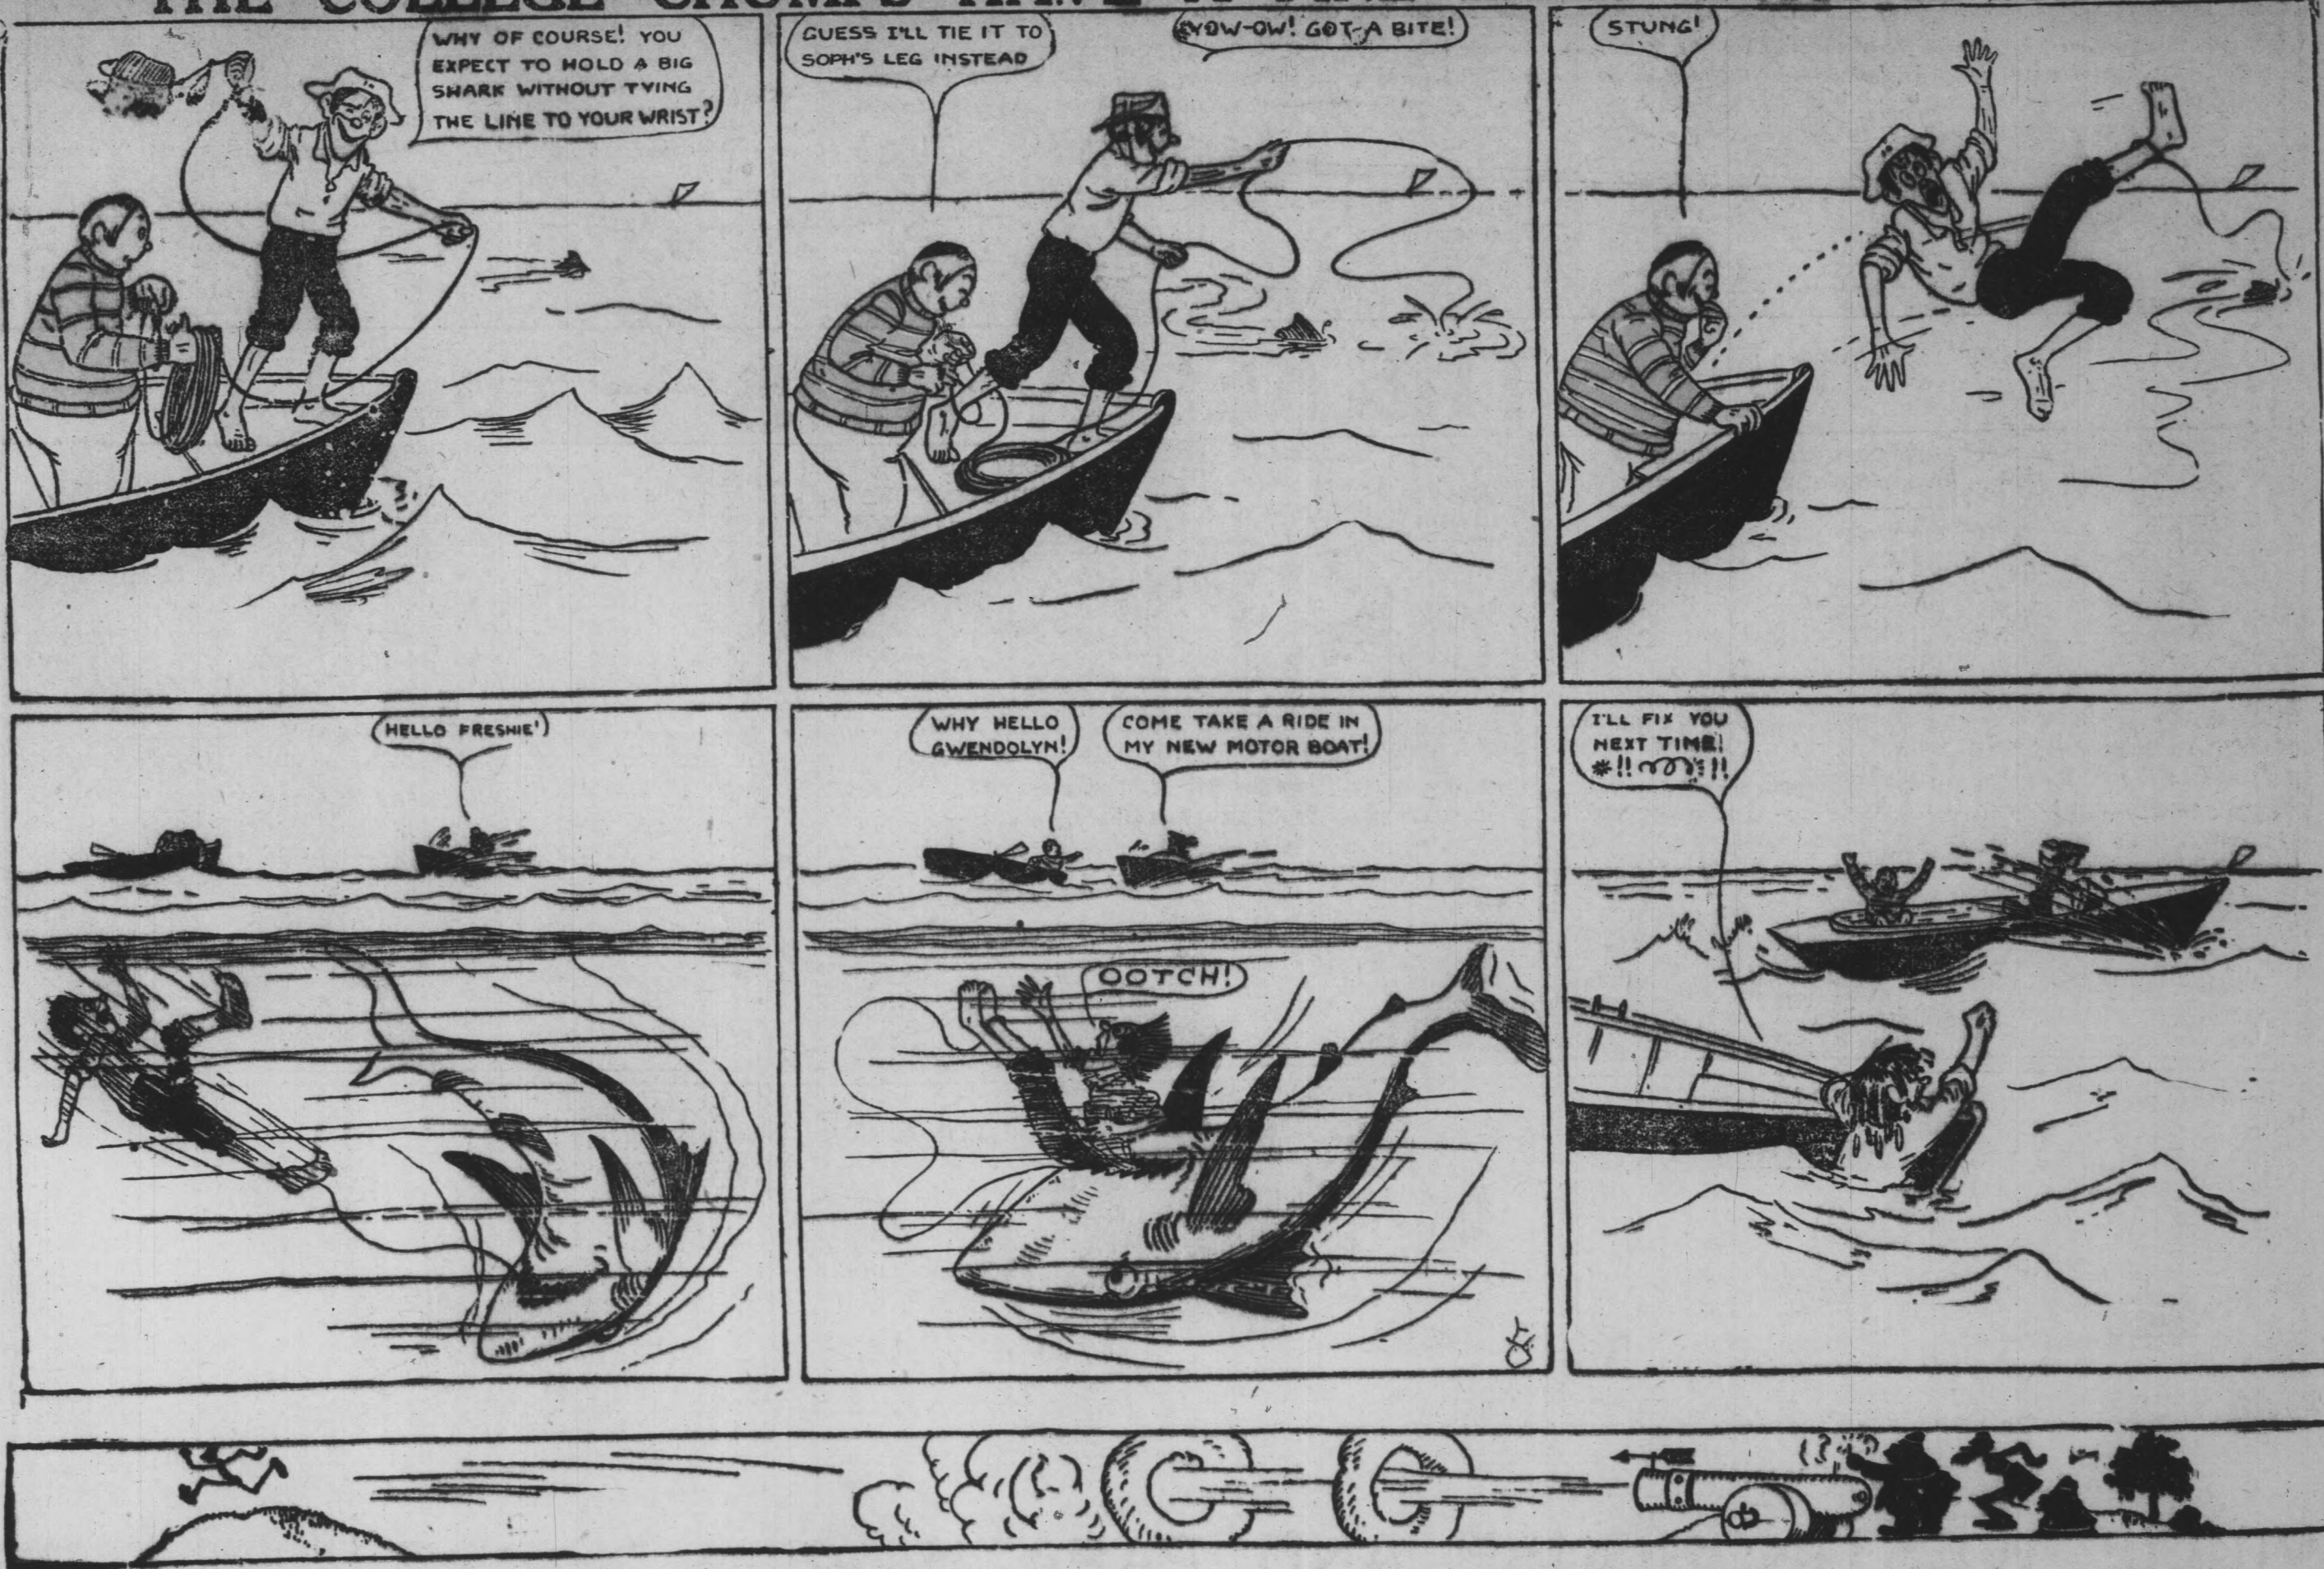

And chased Papa and me all over the grounds.

Papa saved himself by climbing the fence, but he got awfully angry. Yours, Willie.
